Our Story,

In 1939, over 75 years ago, Frank and Mattie Lorino opened The Little Dutch Restaurant and it became known as the “best place to eat in Morristown.” The Angelos family took over operation of The Little Dutch in 1973. They pledged to carry on the traditions of tasty, wholesome, home-cooked food, priced reasonably; standards established by Frank and Mattie. George Angelos and his wife Nina, carry on their greek family traditions of providing dishes that are “always fresh and always homemade” catering to quality and value. They devote full time to the restaurant as head chefs, managers, waiters, and always the official greeters. George and Nina promise years of good service and great food, just what you would expect from Morristown’s favorite local restaurant.
