Our Story,

In 1939, Frank and Mattie Lorino opened the Little Dutch Restaurant and it became known as "the best place to eat in Morristown." The Angelos family took over operation of the Little Dutch in 1973. They pledged to carry on the tradition of tasty, wholesome, home-cooked food priced reasonably following the standard established by Frank and Mattie. In 2019 after 46 years of successful operation, George and Nina Angelos retired and sold the famous eatery to Jamie and Kim Lambert. Vowing to continue the commitment to quality and value, the Lamberts have brought a renewed energy to ensure the restaurant is still "the best place to eat in Morristown." We sincerely hope you enjoy your visit and appreciate this small piece of local history.
